

American College of Surgeons

ACCREDITATION STATEMENT:

The American College of Surgeons is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

CME CREDIT:

The American College of Surgeons designates each educational activity for a maximum of 1 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™, unless otherwise noted. Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

CE CREDIT:

The National Cancer Registrars Association has awarded 1 CE for each educational activity unless otherwise noted. Participants should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

Disclosure:

In order to comply with the ACCME's Standards for Commercial Support, the American College of Surgeons' disclosure process must ensure that anyone in a position to control the content of the educational activity has disclosed all relevant financial relationships with any commercial interest. Per these standards, it is mandatory that both the program committee and speakers complete disclosures. Members of the program committee were required to disclose all financial relationships and speakers were required to disclose any financial relationship as it pertains to the content of the presentations. The ACCME defines a 'commercial interest' as any proprietary entity producing health care goods or services consumed by, or used on patients. It does not consider providers of clinical service directly to patients to be commercial interests. The ACCME considers 'relevant' financial relationships as financial transactions (in any amount) that may create a conflict of interest and occur within the 12 months preceding the time that the individual is being asked to assume a role controlling content of the educational activity.